

Weeping Hill

Drainage plan presentation to Selectmen next Monday

The so-far secret plan, for the diversion of waters from the Burlington reservoir which have been flowing into Weeping Hill is to be presented to the Board of Selectmen for their study, next Monday evening, in the Town Hall.

Town Manager Sterling Morris has seen a preliminary draft of the plan, which was then returned to the Town of Burlington for further work.

Burlington has already done some work at the other end of the Burlington Dam, in Woburn, with one part completed, and work on a second part. So far nothing has been done at the Wilmington end, where the dam becomes anchored into an abutment of Weeping Hill.

Wilmington residents may well view the arrival of the plans as being only probable, based on a previous experience. Once before there was to be a presentation of plans, but nothing matured, and those residents who attended the selectmen's meeting met with nothing but disappointment.

Sterling Morris, Town Manager, says he understands the cost of the projected drainage for the Wilmington end of the dam to be in the neighborhood of $60,000, and further that there are Burlington selectmen who feel that the cost should be "negotiated" with Wilmington.

Other than to say that there are those who want to "negotiate," Morris had nothing to say of the costs.

Woburn Drainage
Two electric submersible pumps have been installed at the base of the dam, in Woburn, behind the property of Chesley Land of 36 Winter Street. The two pumps are planned to operate in sequence, to pump an estimated 200 gallons of water a minute, and at the present time this water is flowing into a drain from which it flows into the Woburn city drainage system.

The Woburn Times quotes the Burlington DPW Superintendent, Angelo Orlandella as saying the pumps started last Wednesday and will require no appreciable maintenance. In the spring the water may be pumped back into the Burlington reservoir, rather than be allowed to go into the Woburn drainage system.

A second drainage system, on the Woburn end, is being installed by the Burlington Loan Company, the company which has a contract with Burlington for drainage systems all over that town, and which was recently threatening a law suit with that town over drainage for the dam.

Michael Connors, owner of Burlington Loan is reported as saying that he will install a gravity feed system in back of the home of Mrs. Concetta Downs, at 41 Winter Street, Woburn, and that the project should be completed in less than two weeks.

The cost of the two "Woburn" projects is estimated to be close to $11,000.

(The Woburn Times, in its reporting of the work progress, last week, had a picture of an inspector from a Stoneham pump company, at the site of the work. That inspector was Winthrop Polsey, a resident of Chestnut Street, Wilmington.)

NEW EXECUTIVE SECRETARY: Mrs. Barbara Collins, of Suncrest Avenue, Wilmington, who has been named Executive Secretary to the Board of Directors of the Chamber of Commerce. With her is the President, Bernard Brady, Director of Safety and Security at Sweetheart Plastic.

Chamber of Commerce Annual Dinner Feb. 22

The annual banquet of the Wilmington Chamber of Commerce is to be held on February 22nd. The date was decided Tuesday, by the Board of Directors of the Chamber.

Always an outstanding pre-Lenten social event in Wilmington, the banquet is to be held in the Casa di Fior, off West Street. There is to be an orchestra, and entertainment, as a part of the program. The committee on arrangements consists of Joseph Maffeo, Middlesex Bank vice president, and Ed Stupac of Avco, and tickets are shortly to be on sale, from Chamber of Commerce directors.

Mrs. Barbara Collins of Suncrest Avenue has been named to be Executive Secretary to the Board of Directors of the Wilmington Chamber of Commerce. She will have office hours from 1 to 3 pm on Wednesdays through Friday. Her telephone number is 657-7211.

One death, three injuries in Saturday night crash

A Burlington youth was killed, and three others injured in a single car accident, Saturday night, on Burlington Avenue in Wilmington. The car, travelling westward, smashed into a large white oak, only a few feet westerly of Harris Street, and was demolished by the crash, which occurred shortly before 10 pm.

Killed was Richard Askildsen, 18, of 3 Savin Street Burlington. He was the driver of the car.

Injured were Elaine Crow and Steven Bausch, both of Foster Street, Burlington, and Deborah Russo, of Wimmer Avenue, Burlington. All are in the 19-20 year old age bracket.

Elaine Crow and Steven Bausch were taken to Winchester Hospital, and the other two to Choate Memorial Hospital in Woburn. Askildsen died of multiple injuries to head and body. Askildsen was a student at Museum School of Art, run by the Museum of Fine Arts, in Boston, and was a student of sculpture. Ambulances from Burlington, Tewksbury and North Reading assisted the Wilmington ambulance at the scene of the accident.

Final warning on excise taxes

Wilmington's Tax Collector, Marion Murphy has issued what appears to be a final warning to motor vehicle owners regarding delinquent excise tax payments, following the results of the opening first round of hearings held recently in the Registry of Motor Vehicles branches across the Commonwealth.

The local collector, who is responsible for notifying Registry officials of delinquents said that out of the hundreds of delinquent defendants hailed before hearings officers by local tax collectors, only a scant few were allowed continuances.

The remainder either lost their driver's license right there on the spot or instead elected to pay the heavy fines, interest, costs and charges of having accruing accrued as provided by law in addition to the overdue base tax amounts which on the initial day of hearings accounted for an aggregate sum approaching some $200,000.

Officials at the Registry are now on record indicating that they will no longer tolerate any further flouting of the laws governing the payment of excise taxes.

Under the provisions of the newly enacted law, the Registry will continue to move swiftly in administering the revocation provisions in total cooperation with all tax collectors across the Commonwealth.

It has been pointed out that the initial hearings were primarily concentrated on cities and larger towns. The next round of hearings will more than likely include many others.

Wilmington Route 129 By Pass

U. S. Environmental Action delays road planning

"We are starting anew, as of tonight" declared Rep. Fred F. Cain, Tuesday evening, in a public hearing on the proposed Route 129 By-Pass of Wilmington Square. Mr. Cain's statement was made after more than an hour of discussion in which the public gradually learned that all previous work on the hoped for By Pass has become dead as a doornail, because of the new U.S. Environmental Act.

All previous studies and planning is, in effect null and void. There will have to be a new programming of the impact on environment. This study will take up to one year, State DPW Commissioner Bruce Campbell told the audience. He estimated the complete lapse of time before the proposed by-pass can be completed as being five years.

Interested persons, about 95 in number, mostly residents of Wilmington, who were trying to get answers to questions found themselves getting none, a curious situation that lasted for some time, and which led Selectman Mike Cairra to declare almost bitterly that the citizens were getting "a lot of rhetoric."

Two other statements were made by selectmen. One was by Danny Gillis in which he complimented the Department of Public Works and Commissioner Campbell for coming to Wilmington. Mr. Gillis declared that only a few years ago the towns had to fight bitterly against proposals that were being made without town co-operation, and now the DPW Commissioner was making personal appearances at hearings in the towns.

James F. Banda, chairman of the Board of Selectmen, deplored the delays, saying that Wilmington's selectmen and planning board had been working on the program for years, that a suitable route had been laid out, and that now, because of delays, six homes have been built on the route of the proposed by-pass. He and other speakers made reference to the statement of the editor of the Town Crier that there has been planning for the proposed by-pass since 1914.

Two of the persons who rose to comment were against the by-pass. Mrs. Frances Sullivan of Columbia Street questioned as to whether or not it was necessary, in view of the impact of the current oil shortage. Paul Godzyk of Parker Street said he was against the building of a by-pass, and at the same time said that a way must be found to get auto traffic through, from Route 93 to Billerica.

Two others who spoke related stories of auto congestion on other than primary streets. Arnold Blake of Middlesex Avenue said that 2000 cars a day were using the street in front of his home, in what he seemed to describe as an effort to by-pass Wilmington Square. Bill Doyle of Cedar Street declared that there were many traffic problems on his street, a street which he described as being "only secondary," the problems coming from cars cutting through from Shawsheen Avenue to Burlington Avenue.

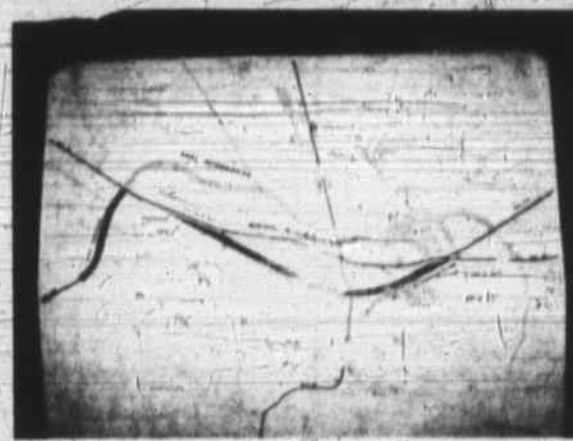

Maps displayed
Three different maps were displayed for the benefit of the audience, but they were later told that none of the plans had any status. One or more of them is to be displayed in the Town Hall, having been given to Arthur Harding, chairman of the planning board.

None of the proposals had any current value, the audience was told. The fact that three possible ends of the proposed "easterly" by-pass were labeled "A," "B" and "C" had no significance as to their relative value.

The program, instead of being informative to the citizenry was, in effect, an attempt to be informative to the DPW officials. Commissioner Campbell called it a "Citizen Participation Process."

The audience was told by Mr. Campbell that 15,000 to 18,000 cars a day use Main Street through Wilmington Square, and that the number of cars is increasing by 3% to 4% a year.

Campbell declared that during the nearly year long environmental study "you will have an individual (environmental) consultant who will work with you. He also declared that it would take four or five years before the proposed by-pass could be completed.

Also above Main Street is the "Middle Alternative" with a proposed road being easterly (in back) of the stores along Main Street.

Below Main Street is shown the "West Alternative," which would have to cross the railroad twice, and would pass westerly of Sweetheart Plastic.

SURPRISE VISITOR: Harold Larch, of Weston (left) a Co-Chairman of SLC, was a surprise visitor at the public hearing Tuesday night on the Route 129 By-Pass. He is shown with Town Manager Sterling Morris. SLC is a regional committee which was formed a few years ago by several towns and cities, including Wilmington, to combat the then DPW proposals for highways through the area.

PAUL GODZYK: Speaking. He was against the By-Pass, but declared that it means had to be found to get Route 93 traffic to Billerica.

She will represent the seven local Chapters of the Massachusetts Heart Association in their Heart Fund Campaign during February, Heart month. Pictured with Julie and Governor Sargent are her parents.

Fire at Gas Station "It was hairy"

"It was a hairy situation," a member of the Wilmington Fire Department said, but it lasted for only about ten seconds after the Fire Department arrived.

About quarter past four, last Friday, a car driven by David Gordon of Oak Street skidded, and rammed into a gas pump at the Quality Car Wash, Mobile Gas station on Main Street. The gas pump was knocked over and the car, a 1965 Chevrolet, was on top of the pump; everything blazed up. Both car and pump were on fire.

There was an alarm, and a telephone call to the Wilmington Fire Department, and fire trucks arrived very quickly, in charge of Deputy Chief Wandell.

The fire was extinguished with foam, in about ten seconds. Approximately ten gallons of foam was all that was needed.

Juveniles face false alarm charges

Two West-Wilmington youths, both under 18, face charges in Woburn Court of having caused a number of false alarms, recently, at the Boutwell School. The first hearing was in Woburn Court last Friday, and the case has been continued to January 17th.

The two boys were captured by Patrolman Fred Brown last Thursday at 10 pm at the school, after allegedly having caused another false alarm. Officer Brown had been "staked out" the school, looking for those who had been setting off the alarms.

Varnish removers come in all kinds. There is one that comes in a liquid and contains a solvent, benzol or acetone.

Another is a crystal, that must be dissolved in water. Remember that the liquids are usually highly inflammable. Nor should you apply them in closed areas, since the fumes are not healthy.

You can make your own varnish remover by dissolving 1/2 cup of trisodium phosphate in one quart of water. Use it boiling-hot for best results.

Magnificent photography by Ed Nelson Eames

Ed Nelson Eames, remembered today by only a few persons, was a Selectman of Wilmington and held other offices sometime in the years between 1900 and World War I. He was of the Wilmington Eames family, born in 1858 in a house which stood at the corner of what is now the corner of Jones Avenue and Glen Road, and the man who built, about 1910, the house on Church Street, adjacent to Thurston Avenue which houses SHARE.

In the 1920's Ed Nelson had a chauffeur driven car, with local young men being hired as drivers, several of whom are still living. It was quite impressive, to see him driven from that home adjacent to the Methodist Church for his morning "constitutional."

Until very recently the Town Crier never knew that Ed Nelson Eames had a hobby of photography, which he exercised sometime between the turn of the century and World War I, to judge by a collection of negatives left by him.

Many of the photographs are of Wilmington, and some of them can be described as magnificent. There are, for instance, two negatives showing the old Boutwell House, on Boutwell Street. The Town Crier has never seen a better photograph of the old house than those by Ed Nelson Eames.

To mention one other subject, there are photographs of the Frank Patchett house, on West Street, the house in which Wavie Drew lived for so many years. The old windmill shows clearly. They are wonderful photos.

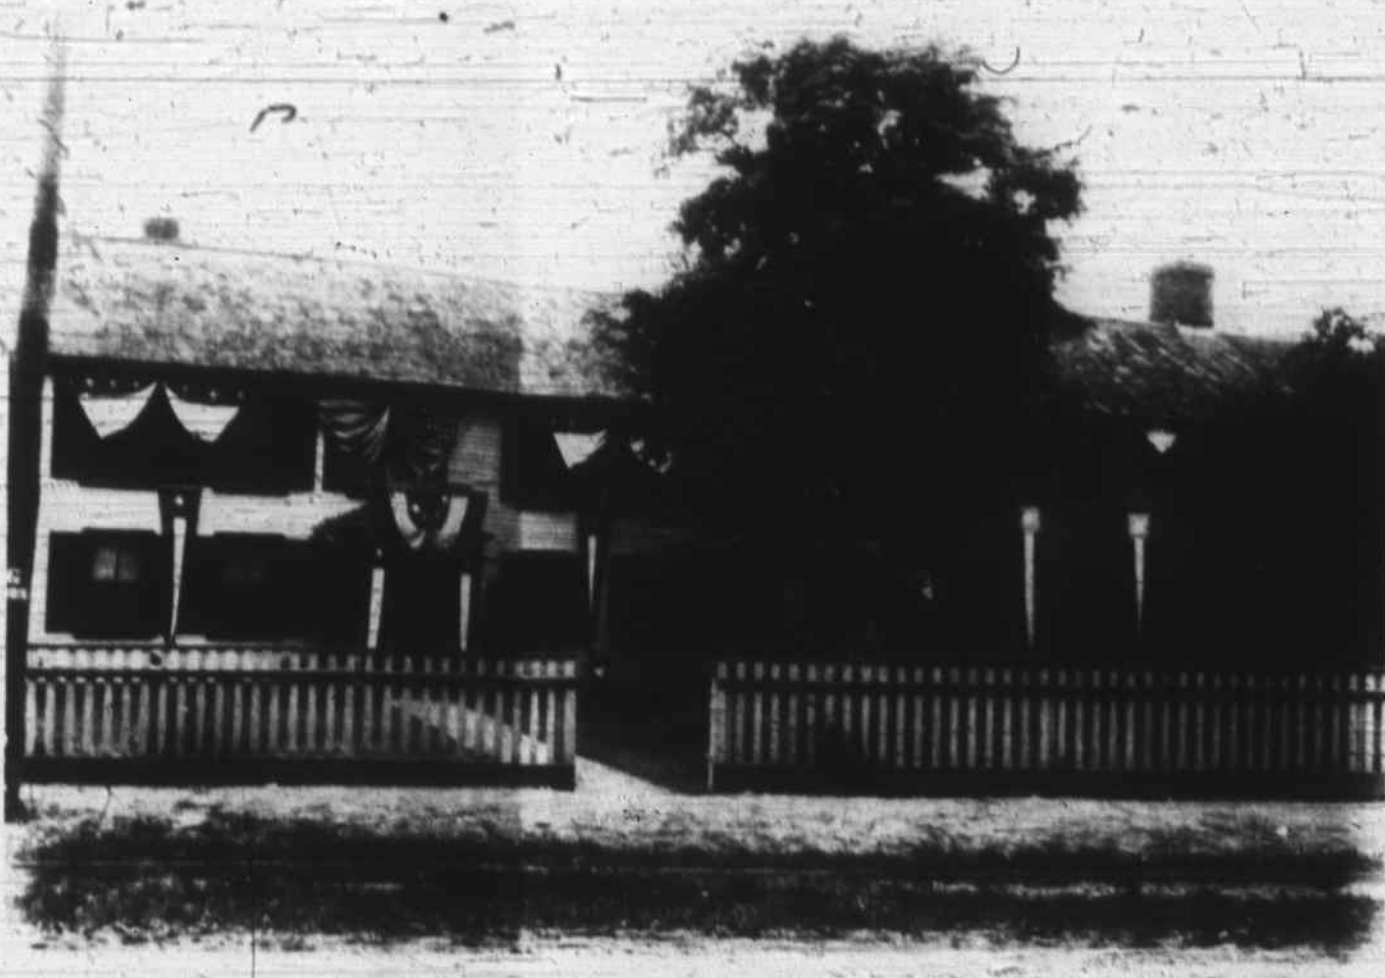

Many of the homes along Selectman, former Town Woburn Street, and some of the people, were photographed by Mr. Eames. There are two negatives showing the old blacksmith shop, on what is now Avco property, at what was for many years Perry's corner, and a magnificent available light photo of John S. Perry, in the shop.

Mr. Eames carefully catalogued his negatives, some with words of meaning only to himself. In the latter part of his life he gave those negatives to Harold Melzar of Lake Street, a person well known in Wilmington, former Water Commissioner, former

Mr. Melzar has now given those negatives to the Town Crier.

There are over fifty negatives. They will not be used by the Town Crier immediately, but eventually there will be prints made, and some of those prints, it is hoped, will be used in a projected book, to be written someday, and called

The Andover Road, the old highway which ran from Boston to Andover 300 years ago, in Colonial Days—and about which so much has been written in the Town Crier.

DRESSED UP FOR WILMINGTON'S 175TH ANNIVERSARY! This building was known to Wilmington residents of fifty years ago as the Fred Lowell house, where dwelt Wilmington's printer of that day. It was located directly across the street, on Middlesex Avenue, from the Joseph McMahon home, and 100 years ago was the property of Mike Carlin. Obviously very old, its history has never been fully explored. The building was torn down prior to World War II. If the building is decorated for the 175th birthday the picture was taken in 1905. Notice the street car tracks in front.

MR. AND MRS. HENRY SHELDON. A magnificent portrait. They lived at what is now 603 Woburn Street, and he was a brother of the Harace Sheldon, cattle breeder, of whom the Town Crier wrote last summer.

ED NELSON EAMES. Self portrait. He seems to be about fifty in this picture, which would date it about 1910.

Picture Notes

The larger picture on this page shows the building owned by Michael Carlin about 100 years ago. Later there were two owners, each of whom owned one half of the building. One of those owners was James "Jim" Kelly, for many years a Town Clerk, Selectman, and at times Moderator of Wilmington. And one of Wilmington's outstanding citizens: It was Jim Kelly who gave the land to the Archbishop of Boston for St. Thomas Church (the old church) which stood where the public library now stands. He lived in the building that is now the parsonage for the First Baptist Church.

One of the families which lived in that home 100 years ago was the McEnroe family. Two girls of that family married two boys of the McMahon family, Isabel becoming Mrs. Thomas McMahon in 1880, and Annie becoming Mrs. Peter McMahon in 1883.

The Peter McMahon family, today, is represented in Wilmington by a son, Bernard, who is the principal of Wilmington High School. Mr. McMahon has a story of how his mother lived in four different homes in Wilmington without hardly changing her address. It is worth hearing.

One of the persons in the Town Crier office in the last few days has remarked about the nose of Mrs. Henry Sheldon—that it is a "Buck" nose, and that Mrs. Sheldon was probably a Wilmington Buck.

If anything ever distinguished the Buck family of Wilmington it was their characteristic of having a "Roman" nose—that is a nose of ample if not magnificent proportions. One of the legacies that have been handed down, for instance is the nose of Colonel William Buck of Wilmington, birth, the man who founded Bucksport, Maine. Some of the occasional visitors from all over the United States to the Buck homestead on Wildwood Street can also be distinguished as members of that family by their nose. Mrs. Sheldon was not a Buck.

She was born in Wilmington, a Gowing and moved to Amherst with her family while a girl. Later she returned to Wilmington to be married.

Nor is she a descendant of a Wilmington Buck. The Town Crier has traced her genealogy.

Her husband Henry—there is no doubt he is a Sheldon. He has the same full face that his father had, that his brothers had, and that the Asa G. Sheldon of sixty years ago in Wilmington had. Henry's face is Sheldon—not through and through, but round and round.

His attire—the beard, the vest, the watch chain—they are all coming back into style again.

Cronin announces Avco will continue work on desalination program

Rep. Paul Cronin, Monday night at the Wilmington League of Women Voters Legislative Night announced at the Avco Laboratories of Wilmington have been given a contract to continue their work on a desalination program series of studies for the Office of Saline Water of the US Department of the Interior.

The contract is valued at $364,983, and will enable Avco to test and evaluate a 75,000 gallon per day pilot plant, made in Wilmington, and now at Wrightsville, N.C. The plant is designed to remove salt and other minerals from ocean water by means of a freeze desalination process.

The process, Cronin said, use only one third of the energy of the conventional methods of distillation methods of desalination.

Rep. Cronin reminded the ladies and their guests that he had a Congressional party inspect the Avco facility and desalination proposals some months ago. It was that trip, he said, the first Congressional trip into the fifth district of which he knew, that kept the program going, and enables Avco to continue this phase of its work.

WILDCAT TALES

Nee paces trackmen

BY TWO TENTHS OF A SECOND, Wildcat senior Bruce Bishop edged Redman Tim Morin in the 50-yard dash during last week's MVC meet at Phillips Academy. An unidentified Tewksbury runner is giving everything in the background. Note WHS Coach Frank Kelley working very hard at the lower right.

Thurs. Jan. 3...The trackmen opened their conference season on a victorious note, running past Tewksbury, 63-23. Tim Nee led the way with a pair of first place finishes, including a new MVC and school record in the high jump with his leap of 5'11". Steve Coville's jump of 5'8", which earned him a second place, also snapped the old record of 5'7" set by Don Capone last year.

In another record breaking performance, Doug Spring set a new school mark in the two mile with a 10:14.8 clocking, bettering his previous record of 10:18.0.

Mon. Jan. 7...Coach Kelley's crew captured all of the first place points, with the exception of the 300 and in this event Tim Nee tied Austin's Chris McConnell and the Wildcats ran home with ease, 63-23 over the Cougars. Rick McCully set a new MVC and school mark in the 45 yard hurdle with a time of 6.0. The previous WHS record of 6.1 was set last year by Rick Barry.

Nee and McConnell tied for the league record with a 35.4 time. Nee's time was debated as being better, but was given 35.4 as the official time. The previous MVC mark was held by McConnell at 35.9 which was set last week.

Icemen snap winless skein

Wed. Jan. 2...The varsity sextet snapped a four game winless streak with a 4-2 triumph over the lowly Andover Golden Warriors. Captain John Harrison paced the Wildcats with a pair of goals, while Dana Mullarky and Dan Burns chipped in with singletons as the first line provided all the scoring points.

This Saturday the Wildcats skate against formidable Tewksbury in hopes of reversing an earlier loss.

Distaffs in contention

Fri. Jan. 4...Following a two week layoff the varsity girls continued their winning ways as they whipped Lawrence, 33-27 for the fourth straight seasonal win. Carlene Butler paced the offensive attack with nine points as the girls ran their overall seasonal record to 5-2.

In the Jayvee contest, Lawrence edged Wilmington junior varsity, 24-20 despite a fine performance by Debbie Cook, who tossed in eight points.

Tues. Jan. 8...Traveling to Chelmsford for a rare night encounter, Coach Dady's quietest came up short, losing to the Lionsess, 35-34. The loss was the first of the season in conference play and makes tomorrow's game at Billerica all that more important. The Jayvees fared much better defeating the Chelmsford Jayvees, 17-10.

Hoopsters fall off pace

Wed. Jan. 2...The varsity lost their fifth straight, third in conference play, bowing to Central Catholic, 59-40. The Raiders jumped out to an 18-8 first period lead and that proved to be the difference as the Wildcats played Central even through the next two frames. Entering the last quarter the Raiders were on top, 38-26, but the victors exploded for 21 points and put the game out of reach.

Co-Captain Doug Stewart led the Wildcats with 16 points, hitting on eight of 23 field goal attempts. Bob Stewart chipped in nine, while Ralph Peterson and Bob Dorival scored four each. The Wildcats shot 33% from the floor compared to Central's 47% and with the varsity's poor free throw shooting (four of 15) the Raiders 15 of 21 from the charity strip proved to be the difference. In the preliminary contest, the Central Jayvees edged the Wildcats junior varsity.

Fri. Jan. 4...Coach DiSarcina's varsity got into the win column for the initial time, whipping an undermanned Methuen club, 60-24. Bob Stewart and Tom Woods led a well balanced scoring attack with 14 points each. Doug Stewart and Ralph Peterson chipped in with 13 and 10 respectively. The Wildcats shot much better from the free throw line for a change, hitting on 18 of 36 attempts, compared to the Rangers 33%. The Jayvees balanced their record at 3-3 with a 50-46 win over their Methuen counterparts as Jim Busby pumped in 13 points.

Tue. Jan. 8...Chelmsford ran out to a 16-9 first period lead and the game was all but over early as the Wildcats could not catch up. The Lions extended their lead to 50-34 after three stanzas and it was not until the final period that the Wildcats could put any significant points on the board to pace the final outcome, which saw the Lions winning, 72-44. Bob Stewart paced the varsity with 20 points, hitting on four of 14 field goal attempts and 12 of 13 free throws. Doug Stewart tallied 10 as the Lions defense kept the Wildcats from getting any decent shots.

Chelmsford hit on 56% of their field goals, while the Wildcats were 16 of 62. In the Jayvee contest, Coach Stone's quietest lost to their counterparts from Chelmsford 51-40.

The rest of the match was all Chelmsford as the powerful Lions remained undefeated while Tewksbury's record dropped to 3-1.

The newly enacted law also requires that any use of salt or other chemicals in excess of one ton be reported to the Department of Public Health and Public Works.

The Commission on Salt Contamination of Water Supplies proposed the legislation after extensive investigation and a study by the Arthur D. Little Co., Inc. of Cambridge. The new law is officially designated Chapter 120B of the Acts of 1973.

By the passage of this bill, Massachusetts has become one of the leaders of salt regulation in the Nation according to MacKenzie who felt from this precedent many states are likely to follow to insure that their water supplies do not risk possible contamination.

"We have taken definite action to help preserve our water supply," MacKenzie said.

"Many sister states and indeed several other nations have watched the progress of the Commission, its reports and now have inquired about our new law because they too seek to solve the problem of how to use salt and other de-icing chemicals without damaging our environment or our health."

Sen. MacKenzie said, "Salt contamination poses health hazards for persons afflicted with a number of diseases especially hypertension and high blood pressure."

Governor Sargent was also pleased with this new law. "It places Massachusetts in the
